

Serving the Nation and setting a good example.

“To realize our vision of providing a network of Multipurpose Community Internet Centers across Indonesia, we certainly need a reliable and familiar software platform. We chose Windows XP and Office XP, as these products fit our needs perfectly.”

Rudy Rusdiah, CEO, Millenia NetCafe.

Through a growing network of Multipurpose Community Internet Centers spread widely all over the country, Millenia NetCafe aspires to help Indonesians join the digital society by offering facilities such as education—in cooperation with the Open University of Indonesia as well as local high schools, entertainment, virtual office and e-government. To keep deployment, maintenance and training costs down, Millenia needed a robust and reliable platform and software applications that its customers have been using most of the time. The company uses original software products only, as it also wants to set the right example of how a business should be run.
